

SHOT MAN WHO SAID HE ROBBED HIS EMPLOYER

Salvatore Mondisaro, Bartender, Fatally Wounds Former Ward in a Bronx Saloon.

CROWD ATTACKED HIM.

Police Reserves Called to Help Rescue the Shooter From Friends of His Victim.

There was a bunch of customers getting their morning drinks in the saloon at No. 611 Morris avenue, the Bronx, today when Elmer Ward came in for a nip. Ward, who was a tender of one of the New York Central's swinging bridges across the Harlem River, appears by all accounts to have been a plain-spoken sort of a man.

He had got his drink and was on his way out when he thought he noticed that Salvatore Mondisaro, the bartender, failed to record a sale of 35 cents on the cash register. Ward, being a friend of Tony Bell, the Italian with the An-gelized name, who owns the place, spoke up promptly.

"Here, you," said the brigdeman to the bartender. "I'm on to you—knocking down coin. I'm going to tell your boss."

According to the bystanders, not another word was spoken by either man.
Mondisaro ran out from behind the bar with a pistol in his hand. It was a cheap enough gun, but at the close range of five feet it did for poor Ward.

The bullet entered his abdomen low down and he dropped on his face. The other men say that the Italian was cackling his gun for a second shot, but before he could get the hammer back Oscar Kraus, a young switchman, of No. 27 East 27th street, and a fifth second street, grabbed a bottle of the sloping bar and lunged at it.
Mondisaro's pistol hand. It was true shot. Pistol and bottle dropped in a common crash on the floor and Mondisaro, snarling, his bruised face started to maul his wayward.

A score of angry men cut him off from the door. The crowd of men of own nationality among the group, but these joined with the rest in piling on the cornered bartender. The light sized back and forth over the ground, prostrate. Ward, who overturned the bar, wrenched the tables and smashed the fixtures. Mondisaro was in a fair way to be beaten to death with his own gun when a policeman Morrison dove in through the swinging doors and with his gun and club on.

The place is in the heart of the Bronx foreign colony, and more men came running from the neighborhood, not knowing what had happened, but eager to have a hand in it. Morrison had lost part of his uniform coat, and was being put to it to save his prisoner from amputation, when the reserves arrived from the Morristan station and cleared out the mob. A citizen had brought himself to telephone for them.

Dr. Rosentwig took Ward from the wrecked bar-room to the Lebanon Hospital, where the surgeons said he could not live. Just before he went on the operating table the man who shot him was led in, chained to two detectives. All the scarpiness was gone out of Mondisaro. He trembled until the links of the handcuffs on his wrists tingled, when he was pushed forward to the cot where the dying man lay.

"He's the one who laid me out," said Ward, and then he fainted.
Ward was forty-eight years old. He lived at No. 232 Park avenue, where he had a family. His slayer is about the same age. At the station house he gave his address as No. 611 East One Hundred and Fifty-second street.

TRIED ON PRINCESS AND STAYED IN IT

Gown Fitted Mrs. Packard's Maid So Snugly That It Fascinated.

Maria Zeman's sudden liking for a new $250 Alice blue princess gown, belonging to Mrs. Reba Packard, wife of a lawyer, living at No. 16 Morristan Parkway, East, has brought her a new batch of trouble.

Maria is twenty-five years old and lives at No. 135 West 41st avenue. She came to this country recently from Hungary, after her sweetheart and discarded her, she says. Sept. 25 Mrs.
Packard took her in as her maid. Her mistress's wardrobe was a fatal sign for the humble girl. She had seen enough of New York to know that a princess about this time, is quite the proper caper.

While Mrs. Packard was away one day the girl discarded her worn suit and tried on the princess. It fitted snugly and, what pleased Maria more, she looked charming. The thought of the tailor's creation, leaving her photograph and other trinkets in her room at the Packard apartment, she went to see some of her new friends.

Last night Detective Newman, of the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street station, saw Maria in the Hungarian settlement—still dressed in the princess.
He arrested her. To-day she was held in $1,000 bonds. To-day she was held when she saw her new gown.
"And it cost so much and was the prettiest gown I have. She pinned it," the fair complainant moaned.

CARLOTTA NILLSON TO WED
DRAMATIST DUQUESNE?

"Right to Tell Only One's Friends About Engagement, and That Is What I'm Going to Do."

BALTIMORE, Oct. 2.—It is reported Miss Carlotta Nillson, who is playing at the Academy this week, is to marry Henri Duquesne, the famous French dramatist. Miss Nillson would only say:
"I am a married woman, and I am not taking about my engagement." It is usually the thing to tell only one's friends about one's engagement, and that is just what I am going to do in this case. My friends and those of Duquesne belong to us and to us.

COURT DOES NOT KNOW WHAT TO DO WITH THIS MAN

Patrick Lynch, with Remarkable Criminal Career, Is Up Again for Trial.

25 YEARS IN PRISON.

Here Is Now a Question as to His Sanity.

A perplexing problem was presented to Judge McAvoy in Part I. of General Sessions to-day when a distinguished looking man whose long hair and drooping moustache were snow white was arraigned before him. The prisoner is Patrick Henry Lynch, and with the exception of ten months, he has spent the past twenty-five years of his life in prison. As criminal records go, his career has been remarkable.

After having spent eleven years in Sing Sing and the Matteawan Hospital for the Criminal Insane, Lynch was arrested on Jan. 1, 1898, for burglary in the third degree. While awaiting trial in the Tombs he became insane again and was sent to Matteawan. He remained there until three months ago, when his brother obtained his release on a writ of habeas corpus.

Brought Back for Trial.
The prisoner was taken back to the Tombs, as he had never been brought to trial on the old indictment. His case was investigated by the District Attorney and Abe Levy was appointed by Judge McAvoy as his counsel. Mr.
Levy appeared in Part I. to-day and made the following statement to the court.

"The case I have been assigned to is very unusual and I am at a loss to make any recommendation as to your Honor. This prisoner is fifty-one years old, and since the age of twenty-six has known only ten months of freedom. When he first got into trouble he was sent to the penitentiary for one year. Upon his release the police hounded him, and he was arrested repeatedly.

"In 1882 he was indicted for murder in the first degree. Convicted of murder in the second degree he was sentenced to life imprisonment. While serving his sentence he became insane and was transferred to Matteawan.
After serving twelve years he was pardoned by Gov. Flower. Two weeks after he was pardoned he was arrested on a charge of assault. He was convicted and sentenced to serve one year in the penitentiary. While in prison he became insane again and was returned to the asylum. He remained there eight months longer than his prison sentence.

Once More Arrested.
"A second time his brother obtained his release, but again he was unfortunate, and on the same day he was arrested while trying to get into a saloon. He was taken to the Tombs, indicted, adjudged insane and once more sent to Matteawan. This is the record of the prisoner. Under the circumstances I do not feel like recommending his release, for if he is a man mentally unbalanced it would not be safe to have him at large. I will have to leave the matter to the Court's discretion."

Assistant District Attorney Nott said that the facts were just as Mr. Levy had stated them. He suggested that Judge McAvoy remand the white-haired prisoner to the Tombs for further observation. This was done.

EXPLORER COOK READY FOR TRIP TO THE POLE.

Wintering Further North Than Peary Preparatory to Voyage of the Polar Sea.

NORTH SYDNEY, N. S., Oct. 2.—The American auxiliary schooner yacht John R. Bradley, which left here early in July for the Arctic regions, has returned here. The Bradley, headed by F. H. Cook, who is in command of an exploration expedition, at Smith's Sound, latitude 75 N. The expedition expects to cross Ellsmere land early in the spring and will attempt to reach the Pole by way of the Polar Sea.

The expedition is provisioned for two years and fully equipped with dogs and sledges for the trip. The party, which consists of Dr. Cook, another white man and a number of Eskimos, are wintering thirty miles further north than Peary did two years ago.

NATIONAL GUARD IS EQUAL TO ANY, SAYS GEN. HENRY

State's Adjutant Declares Report of Inefficiency is Absolutely False.

The Wainwright Commission, appointed by the last State Legislature to investigate the National Guard, with the view of eliminating obsolete features and making recommendations, which shall place the Guard in high efficiency, began its sessions to-day at the Seventy-first Regiment armory.

The commission is composed of Col.
William Cary Sanger, chairman, and Senators Martin Sage, of New York, and Fuller of Kings; Gen. William A.
Kobbe, U. S. A., Assessor-General of Queens, and Baldwin of Syracuse, and Capt. Francis G. Landon, Senator Fancher, of Cattaraugus, also a member, was not present. Col. W. S. Schuyler acted as military adviser and Stephen H. Olin as counsel.

Adjutant-General Henry occupied most of the morning session with his testimony. He was questioned about the cost of maintenance of the National Guard and was asked to submit a statement showing the average cost of maintenance per man. He said he would compile this for the Commission.

Replying to a question regarding the reports of regular army officers leaving the efficiency of the New York State troops, the witness said:
"I was more than surprised in reading the reports of the deficiency of the guard and the articles lacking in the equipment of certain regiments. Statesmen in the report are absolutely false."

The General qualified this by saying that he could only account for the false report by the fact that some of the State Guard officers had not reported completely of equipment. For instance, the report said a certain regiment lacked overcoats and medical service.
The General said:

"I make these remarks in justice to the State guard, which is better housed, better supported and better equipped than any other guard and is ready to take the field with any other organization. The Governor asked me for an explanation of the report."

"I told him that the fault was due either to the army inspectors or to our own officers. Any shortcomings of the State Guard is due alone to a lack of available property and appropriations."

Col. Sanger asked witness: "Do you understand me to say that the report of the inspectors said 'some of the guard were without overcoats and medical supplies' when they actually had
them?"

"I do," was the reply.

rietor of the Home Laundry in this amined the body.
